WE NOMINATE

Robert Day Allen, 34-year old Princeton University biologist, who in winter just past—to the impressment of scientist and layman alike—has effectively demonstrated that basic research, however widely divorced it might seem to be from the demands of every-day life, is closely linked with the “new frontiers” of knowledge. It was a month ago, in culmination of some eight years of work in this country and in European laboratories, that Allen caught the press's attention with the announcement that biology textbooks, on both the college and school levels, have long been wrong about “one of the basic motions in nature.”

The object of Allen's attention, starting with a minor mishap in 1951 in a Stockholm (Sweden) laboratory, has been the commonplace, if not ubiquitous, amoeba, the one-celled animal sketched so frequently (and often with despair) by generations of biology students. Allen's researches, in which he has been assisted by both undergraduate and graduate students, show that science has been in error on the amoeba, that amoeboid movement—a matter of far-reaching import in cancer research—is the reverse of the processes traditionally associated with the shifting, or “flow,” of protoplasm inside cells.

Classical theory held that the amoeba, so easily capable of dividing itself into two organisms, propelled itself by a sort of “toothpaste action” from rear to front. It is Allen's supportable contention that the amoeba “pulls itself ahead by its bootstraps” much like a tractor on endlessly moving treads. The significance of the discovery lies in the fact that such cellular motion is the method by which “scavenger white cells in the human circulatory system move to engulf bacteria and debris” and the way in which cells forming new tissue, and embryonic cells, move into position in the human bloodstream.

The Rhode Island-born Allen, a member of the Class of 1919 at Brown and the recipient of his doctoral degree at the University of Pennsylvania four years later, initiated his recently announced researches as a post-doctoral fellow in Sweden's National Cancer Institute. A broken glass capillary tube, containing an amoeba in water, gave him an opportunity to observe that, even after the amoeba's membrane has been broken, its watery substance (cytoplasm) continued to move much as it had under the pressure created by its intact cell. This chance reading led directly to his intensive and continuing investigations in this country and last year in Japan.

To Allen, whose wife is one of the Princeton Area's gifted teachers of science, belongs the distinction of organizing a major project for the National Institutes of Health, a five-year grant of $142,350 enabling Allen and his associates to carry forward research into the “mechanism of cell movement and protoplasmic streaming.” Based here in the George F. Mollett Biology Laboratory, Allen, a Princetonian since 1957, and his associates are now using highly specialized instrumentation facilities, including newly developed microscopes, to investigate basic life processes which are thought to be related but are still in the year 1962 only partially understood.

For throwing new light on what has been called “one of the greatest challenges in biological research”; for relating the unending search for new knowledge to the teaching process; for personifying the devotion of the research scientist who in the protective quiet of his laboratory works for the common weal; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

Total Restraint Wins. The dogs of Princeton will be totally restrained. But not immediately.

After a three-hour hearing Monday night, attended by approximately 135 residents who sat, perched or stood in the crowded room, Township Committee voted down, 4-1, the moderate dog-control ordinance. Thomas P. Cook was the "nay."

Then Committee named a "task force," headed by Committeeman John S. Mount, who has been for total restraint all along, to confer with attorney Gordon Griffin on preparation of a total restraint ordinance. Other members of the task force will be Police Chief James Campbell, Jr., Administrator Joseph Nini and Mr. Griffin.

Fence Them In! Until Monday night's vocal, and sometimes passionate, public hearing, only Mr. Mount had been pre-total restraint. But the accounts of near-blinded children, dog packs roaming playground and street, strewn garbage infested with rats; dogs at large in the incinerator where they might encounter rabid rats, seemed to change the minds of all but Mr. Cook and Mr. Mount.

The audience was, according to the estimate of one of its members, about 85 percent pro-total restraint; in fact, T. B. Fisher, Snowden Lane, at one point commented, "Here's what an organized minority can do."

Committee now faces another public hearing, once the total restraint ordinance has been prepared, in which 85 percent of the audience might well be anti-total restraint.

Before the hearing, Mr. Nini read a petition in favor of total restraint signed by 561 residents and another favoring the milder ordinance signed by 231. In addition, he said, there were 24 communications; 13 favoring totally; 9 moderate control and two suggesting no change at all. There had also been, some months ago, a petition asking for a referendum, signed by 156.

Bite Protection? "I've been bitten by a dog," announced Nicholas Turzetta, 102 Dempsey. "How will this ordinance keep another dog from biting me?"

"The trouble with this ordinance is that it doesn't go into effect until AFTER the bite," commented Conrad Selwenger, 289 Shady Brook. "In the area where I live, there are packs of three to five dogs each, and I don't see how this ordinance can protect my property from them."

Repeatedly, in the course of the hearing, complaints about "packs" came from residents in the Shady Brook-Marion Road-Littlebrook area. Dogs have known to roam the Littlebrook and Riverside School playgrounds as well, and one articulate resident of Riverside Drive, Mrs. Norman Aronson, said that a dog had even invaded her house.

Replying to stories of dog

CATCH ME FIRST! "You can't do this to me," might well be the lament of Princeton's dogs now that they know Township Committee has decided to restrain them totally. But, as somebody once said, "First, you've got to catch the dog" (Staff Photo) packs on school grounds, Mr. Fisher said, "Why not fence the schools?"

This drew laughter, particularly from Dr. John McKenna, superintendent of schools.

No Fences. "I am here as superintendent and as a resident," Dr. McKenna said. "Dog packs are a major school danger, not only on the playground, but on sidewalks leading to schools. Dogs menace bike riders, they snatch lunches from walkers and they frighten very young children—fences wouldn't do the trick." Dr. McKenna, who lives at 12 Randall Road, said that he refused to let his dog out any more because of the other dogs that roamed the neighborhood, and he said he no longer takes walks at night because packs of dogs, sometimes 10 to a pack, are a menace.

One of the most eloquent "total" pleaders was Leonard Weisberg, 949 Princeton Pike, whose young child had been so severely bitten about the eye that 29 stitches were required to close the wound. "This happened on my property," Mr. Weisberg said, "and

Castro Imports Algerian Rebels to Train Cuban Terrorists and SABOTEURS

HAVANA — Despite his tottering economy and hungry followers, there are signs that Premier Fidel Castro is already thinking of exporting his revolution to other Latin-American countries.

To train Cuban terrorists and saboteurs for this work, he has brought in seventy-six Algerian veteran rebels of the FLN.

They arrived in Havana Feb. 10 on the Cuban freighter Behia de Nipe from Casablanca. With them were twenty children whose parents had died in the bitter seven-year struggle in Algeria.

Their leader is tall, deep-chested, dark-skinned Omar Haraigue. All of them had been wounded in the fighting, some in Algeria, others in France. Eight of them have lost limbs.

Haraigue, who led a cell of terrorists inside France, made this little speech to his hosts:

"The Algerian people who are engaged in a great struggle know better than any one what the imperialists and their lackeys are capable of. Therefore the liberation of the Cuban people in 1959 was received with great joy by us."

With that off his chest, Haraigue and his cohorts have settled themselves comfortably into the once-plush, but now decrepit, Hotel Riviera in Havana, for a few weeks of whooping it up before going to the terrorists' training camps in the Sierra Maestras, Castro's old stamping ground.

After denials that the Algerians were even on the island, the Exterior Relations Ministry eventually admitted they were in Cuba only to rest and recuperate from their wounds.

Algeria, according to Haraigue, will soon follow Cuba's bloody path of tyranny and repression: "We Algerians," he says, "will also start a social revolution when we achieve our liberation."

The twenty children, all well-coached to chant "Viva Fidel" at the twinkling of a beard, have become wards of the Cuban government. They were placed in an orphanage at Santa Maria, east of Havana.

Two factors point directly to Havana now being Moscow's front line spy echelon in the Western Hemisphere:

The Russian Ambassador is Sergei Koudriavtzev, who was First Secretary at the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa when cypher clerk Igor Gouzenko defected and blew the lid on Moscow's audacious attempt to establish a series of spy rings in North America in 1945. Ambassador Koudriavtzev was revealed as the mastermind behind that plot, operating under the code name of "Leon."

The second factor is that Henning Sorensen, a Danish-born, naturalized Canadian and a Spanish civil war veteran who was accused in the Gouzenko documents of selling allied naval secrets to the Russians while he was serving as an intelligence officer in the Royal Canadian Navy, is also in Havana now.

Sorensen, 60, white haired, a self-confessed Marxist and a voluntary member of Castro's Red-bossed militia, is a senior translator in Cuba's propaganda department in the Ministry of Exterior Relations.

Ten months ago he threw up his job peddling insurance in Vancouver and headed for Havana.

Every block of buildings in Havana has its spy, employed and paid $160 a month to keep a dossier on every person in the block area. Everything, suspicious or otherwise, has to be recorded, and periodically the block spies are checked over by the G-20 secret police.

Pressure is exerted on everyone working for the government to join the militia. But being a militiaman in this sun-drenched communist utopia costs plenty — the blue flannel shirt costs him $5, the jungle green fatigue pants $10, Czech-made cowboy boots $16, and a pistol (which every militiaman is entitled to carry, and most do with alarming carelessness) runs anything from $80 to $150 depending on type, vintage and condition.

Would-be "guzanos" (worms — which the Castroites label those wanting to leave the island) also told me of raids by secret police on their homes after they had applied for a passport (but long before they get their exit permit to actually leave) to take a complete inventory of the home, its contents and vehicles.

Those who leave the island have to hand everything over to the government. They are not allowed to sell anything in the six months preceding their departure.

The statistical data recorded by the surveying firm will

Mr. Henle commented that building owners may best cooperate by permitting quick access to the building. "Permission to enter the building does not commit owners to future use of the spaces," he pointed out.

MAJOR CHANGE PLANNED
In Sewage Disposal Code.
The virtual elimination of future building in the northeast and northwest sections of the Township will follow passage of a measure now before the Township Board of Health. Public hearing is scheduled for next Thursday at 8 in Township Hall.

Technically, the measure is an amendment to the state individual sewage disposal systems code, as adopted by the Board of Health. It reduces from 40 minutes to 20 minutes the length of time required for soil percolation tests.

Given the impenetrable soil overlaying the diabase formations of the northern Township, this 20-minute reduction effectively cuts out building in that area, particularly in sections where property - owners have been narrowly squeaking by even the 40-minute limit.

Real estate agents, developers and property-owners are expected to turn out in full force at the meeting to protest passage of the amendment.

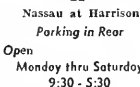

At Township Committee meeting Monday night, Elmer Greey, Ridgeview Road, expressed his shock at seeing raw sewage overflowing on Valley Road last week, and he told Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and Committee that he thought all development in the Township should be slowed down until the sewerage problem had been solved.

In reply Mayor Fairman said that, in 1962, Committee expected to spend 50% of its time on the sewer problem. "With the cooperation of Mayor Henry Patterson," Mr. Fairman said, "we hope to move ahead. Mr. Patterson and I will meet early in April with the ordinance now before you would not have prevented it at all. Much you would want child loses an eye to have total restraint of dogs?"

Frost thawing equals mud but it's one of the basic signs of spring, so who's to complain?

The Other Side, Mayor Fairman said he couldn't see a total ordinance in 1962 because of cost, and he urged a moderate plan first, with a total one to follow. He suggested that total restraint might mean a 1-1/2 point tax rise to provide for confinement animals and disposing of them.

Mrs. David T. Harjes, Nassau Hill Road, suggested that Committee investigate the cost of total restraint, which both Lawrence and Ed. Manfreny, Townships now have. Mayor Fairman said Committee would do this.

Come Again. Following the hearing, a dozen or so who had come, remained out of curiosity to find out whether Committee would act on the ordinance or table it, and to see what else might be on the agenda.

Mr. Elmer Greer raised the question of sewer line story. Topics of the Town, and after listening to the discussion of the problem between Mr. Greer and Mayor Fairman, George Bent, 449 Walnut Lane, said, "I'll bet Township Committee wishes people would get as excited about sewers and zoning and taxes as they do about dogs. I came here only for the dog hearing, but I should have come to a meeting long before this, and I plan to again."

ROUND-UP

Tom O'Kane of 135 Spruce Street, bitten by a dog for which police were looking last week, won't need those rabies shots... publicity given the case resulted in identification of the dog, which proved to have had his rabies shots.

Another 12-year old, Karen Wright, 40 Murray Place, was bitten by a dog owned by Mrs. Pat Kahay of Aiken Avenue... the dog will be confined for ten days... Anthony Sanich, 27, of 140 Spruce Street, was bitten on the right thigh by an English setter owned by Sumner Irish, 120 McCosh Circle... and a deer was killed on State Road 206 near Township Hall when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Jonathan Morey of Mountain Avenue.

The accident last fall at Nassau and Harrison involving an automobile and a fire engine of the Hook and Ladder Co. resulted in requests for safety measures from both the Borough and the Fire Department... as a result, a switch will be installed in the fire house on North Harrison Street which will turn the traffic signal red on three sides, giving engines answering an alarm a green light.

The several municipal parking yard is now in operation on the site of the old Lamp-lighter restaurant between Witherspoon and Nassau, 20 metered spaces, two-hour limit, are available... cars leaving must turn right only on Witherspoon.

Cory S. Kammerlude into apprenticeship in a selected trade. The fellow who has an aptitude for a skilled trade, and who decides to go to college because it's the thing to do, may be sacrificing his chance at happiness and success simply to follow the crowd. The capable mechanic is more likely to succeed in life than the 20-year college graduate." He said, "Now, and there is a shortage of skilled men in all of the trades... a good man is practically guaranteed a secure career with earnings frequently higher than the averages of college men. Not only that, about 80% of all independent business men who own fine businesses in the electrical, plumbing and building trades, started out as apprentices. And it is not rare for a big company executive to have advanced from the ranks of skilled workers." His facts and advice are worth passing along because so much is at stake for our young people. ### A LIVELY "MERCHANT"

On McCarter Stage, "It is a wise father that knows his own child," and it will be a wise theatregoer who sees "The Merchant of Venice" this Thursday, Friday or Saturday at McCarter. Unlike the "sawdust" Gobbo, he will recognize neither a topnotch nor a definitive production, but one that adds great life and joy to the theatre and Shakespeare.

Despite an occasional lapse in smoothness, the cast under Douglas Seale's cohesive direction, turns in a collectively delightful and, above all, lively performance. William Roberts sets the scene beautifully with intriguing, embellishments to the scaffold stage and smashing costumes in dazzling Venetian colors.

Good Trial Scene. Portia, played by Christine Pickles, becomes a broad rather than subtle part, somewhat lacking in the necessary dignity, but nevertheless charming and completely sympathetic. She is cool and a shade arch in the early scenes, and then turns into a convincing doctor for the trial her "quality of mercy" loses some of its punch in underplaying.

In the trial, no dramatic device is omitted: Portia stalks the stage and enunciates her lines in clipped tones; Shylock, superbly portrayed by David Byrd, drips venom and pathos with perfect control; and Antonio and Bassanio (Raven Hiesi and Jon Cypher) come to quaking life. The conflict, splashed on the stage in vivid and exciting color, overcomes a drab Duke (Arthur Lithgow) and fussy gesturing on the part of Portia.

Wide-Eyed Uncertainty. Mr. Cypher's Bassanio is self-conscious on occasion, which brings to the play as a whole a certain naive and innocence. Somehow the same attitude creeps into the characterizations of Antonio, Gratiano (Alan Nixon), Lorenzo (Tony Sawyer) and Jessica (Carol Teitel). Mr. Bieri does well by Antonio despite the flatness of his role, whereas Mr. Nixon's Gratiano is a cardboard part.

With Mr. Sawyer and Miss Teitel, the beauty of Shakespeare's language comes across consistently, and Mr. Sawyer is particularly successful with his discourse on moonlight and stars in a clear scene. Elsewhere, declarations of true love ring out sweetly, and Christian and Jew denounce each other in proper tones. Only occasionally is the dialogue marred by inaudibility.

Shylock on Top. McCarter has found the perfect Shylock in Mr. Byrd who claims the role with authority and distinction. He is a man plagued by Christian tormentors and his own evil nature, a human being in a predictable predicament. He is evil and pathetic in his desire for revenge, his aversion to the way of life becoming eminently logical. Mr. Byrd brings out all the contrasts in the character during his short opening scene: he picks his teeth, rolls his red-lined eyes, fawns upon Bassanio and Antonio and drives them magnificently. The "to snell pork" speech is especially good.

Al Corbin, as Tubal, takes the "successful Jewish comic" relief with a straight face, ornamented by a square beard. His gray face and rusky black garments match Shylock's. Lancelotti Gobbo, portrayed by Charles Herrick, turns an obvious comedy bit into good fun with his father (John Hoffmann), and the two make a fine pair.

Another superb comic scene is taken by Portia's suitors, perfect princes, played by Dennis Longwell and Michael Fender. Miss Pickles, amply aided by Jo Wilder as Nerissa, is a fine foil.

The school matinee audience Friday afternoon responded enthusiastically to the production. Shylock was hissed as he slunk onto the stage, roars of laughter greeted Lancelotti and his father; and the course of true love gained both catcalls and applause. Fortified by doughnuts during the two intermissions, the youthful audience followed the trials and tribulations of 16th century Italians for over two hours, and seemed to enjoy them thoroughly.

The production is immeasurably enhanced by beautifully planned staging and additions. Portia discusses her suitors with Nerissa at a picnic; the choosing of the caskets almost becomes a dance; Joyce Meckel's music is used ingeniously; and the "extras" are never superfluous. Imagination and care have paid high dividends and what the cast lacks in ease and aplomb is more than made up by the grand total of the play.

"ANYTHING GOES"
To Be Spring Musical. Auditions held earlier this month produced some exciting talent, and as a result, William Lyon has decided to stage Cole Porter's hit, "Anything Goes" as the spring musical for the J. & B. Players.
The 1930's musical is scheduled to play April 27 and 28 and again May 11 and 12 at McCarter Theatre under Mr. Lyon's direction.

Porter and a book by P. G. Wodehouse, "Anything Goes" provided a successful vehicle for Ethel Merman, Victor Moore, William Gaston and Tamara, and gave the theatre such hit tunes as "Anything Goes," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Blow, Gabriel, Blow," "You're the Top," and "All Through the Night."

"NOAH" TO BE GIVEN

But No 40-Night Run. The cabin of Noah's Ark, said to be the largest prop ever used in a Princeton High School play, will serve as the setting for the three-act fantasy, "Noah" which will be given this Friday and Saturday at $15 in the school auditorium. Ronald Dale of the shop department and his construction crew built the ark. Arthur Stein of the art department is responsible for the scenery and Miss Dorothy Caskell and Mrs. Catherine Avery for the properties. Richard Wood's electrical crew has produced lightning and a rainbow from the new high-school lighting apparatus.

"Noah" is under the direction of Mrs. Linda Smith, assisted by Julia Freeman, student director. John Lithgow will play the title role. Ray Vuolen will be his wife and Elric Enderby, Dennis O'Leary and Geoffrey Bate will portray the three sons Donald Blumfeldt is the Man.

The parts of neighbor girls will be played by Mary Dee Libbey, Robin Pittendrecht and Melaine Vural. Understudies are Judy Epstein, Michael Marston, Robert Szabany, Barbara Taft and Linda Hassenall and Jane Stilly.

Members of the Property Committee are Barbara Brammer, Ingrid Buck, Pamela Hassenall and Jane Stilly. Susan Ruzic, chairman of the business staff, has announced that tickets, at $1, may be purchased from high school students or at the box office the nights of the play.

NOAH EXPLAINS: John Lithgow, son of Arthur Lithgow, McArthur Theatre's resident director, will play the title role of Noah in a three-act fantasy Friday and Saturday in the Princeton High School auditorium. Other members of the cast shown are Ray Vuolen (seated), Noah's wife, Dennis O'Leary, and Elric Enderby, (back to camera), Ham and Shem, Noah's sons; and Melaine Vural, a neighbor girl.

"KING'S MEN" COMING

In Players' Production, "All in the King's Men," the Princeton Community Players' first production of the year, will be offered at Murray Theatre next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the direction of Edward Earle, who directed the west coast premiere of the Robert Penn Warren play.

The drama relates the rise and fall of a political dictator in the deep south. It began life as an epic poem, then became two plays, one of which

THE PLAYHOUSE

Lover Come Back (March 21-27). "Hollywood (as well as various rock 'n' roll stars) follow the adage: when you've got a winner, don't stop. "Pillow Talk" made a lot of money two years ago. So why not put Back Hudson, Doris Day and Tony Randall in another comedy of the same type. Call it "Lover Come Back." It will also make a lot of money.

That's the philosophy, and it usually doesn't work. However, this time it does. Mainly because the three stars are just plain good comedy tools. For females, there is Hudson and Miss Day's exquisite wardrobe. For males, there is Miss Day as the sweet girl and Edie Adams as the sexy girl. And for everyone there is Randall with his best interiorly complex to date.

Plot is unimportant. It deals with competition between two Madison Avenue advertising agencies. The story moves quickly with lots of laughs, lots of color and lots of horseplay. Comment: son of "Pillow Talk," and just as entertaining.

Light in the Piazza (March 28-31) is a sentimental soap-opera dealing with the tribulations of the mother of a 26-year-old daughter who has the mental and emotional age of a child of 10. The girl falls in love (at the age of 10?) and the mother's decision is whether or not to let her marry.

As is evident, the picture has problems, stemming principally from a fuzzy idea of the main characters and the nature of mental retardation. The mother's own unhappy marriage doesn't help, either. Olivia de Havilland tries hard in a difficult role. Rossano Brazzi plays the father of the boy, who is portrayed by George Hamilton.

The scenery, both Italy and Yvette Mimieux as the daughter, is breathtaking. Producer Arthur Freed has minimized his plot problems by providing some of the most beautiful color photography of famous Italian landmarks ever seen on

MUSIC In Princeton

TO USE SYNTHESIZER

Vocal Work, When "Voices Sarrae, Pradane" is presented in Town Hall, New York, this Sunday at 3 by the Princeton Chamber Singers, one of the offerings will be Milton Babbitt's "Vision and Prayer," the only composition yet written for human voice and synthesized accompaniment.

The singer will be Bethany Beardslee, 100 Lodge Road, who is, according to the composer, the only singer who has been able to perform his work.

The accompaniment will come from a tape produced by the RCA Sound Synthesizer, the Mark II, expanded, enlarged and improved from the prototype developed by RCA for use during World War II.

To use the synthesizer, the composer must understand binary code, programming and circuitry. He specifies the frequency, intensity and timbral characteristics of the sound by controlling the electrical component of the machine through punched tape instructions, and the machine produces only what the composer completely specifies; it is not a computer or a composing machine.

"Vision and Prayer" exemplifies some of the vast sound resources which can be tapped only through the synthesizer, in contrast to other electronic compositions where simple wave generators and oscillators have been employed.

The program will also include Malcolm Peyton's Cantata, set to a text by James Joyce and scored for soprano (Miss Beardslee), tenor and seven wind instruments. David Judd will be the tenor.

The Chamber Singers will conclude with works by Salvatore Martirano, Mozart and Richard Strauss. Tickets for the performance are available at the University Store or at Town Hall.

MUSICIANS TO GATHER

For Monthly Meeting, Members of the Princeton Music Club will gather next Wednesday at 8:30 for their regular program of music and discussion.

The group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McKim Korton, 87 Lafayette Road, to hear David Porter, Edna Shehadi, Phyllis Rappaport, Vickie Polita and Rose Plun.

GLEE CLUB TO SING

In Pennington, "An Evening of Music" with Harry Mulder and his Trenton Male Glee Club will be presented this Saturday at 8:30 in the Central High School auditorium, Pennington, by the Pennington Woman's Club.

Within the Club are two quartets: the Royal-Ayers, known for its barbershop singing, and the "Off-Keys," who sing rock 'n' roll, among other things. Members of the Glee Club are also members of the Mercer County chorus and have performed in many cities throughout the east.

Tickets are available through club members.

TO SING IN TRIBUTE

Westminster Choir will sing in memorial tribute to Dimitri Mitropoulos and Bruno Walter in a special concert to be given in New York's Carnegie Hall on Sunday, April 1, at 8:30.

The choir will sing Haydn's "Te Deum" and Schult's "Selig sind die Toten" as part of the musical tribute to the two great conductors, both of whom had led the Westminster Choir on many occasions in the past.

Later in the spring, on Saturday, May 12, the Choir College will sponsor a Choral Festival of Sacred Music which will be held in the auditorium at Ocean Grove.

Over 2,500 singers from choirs in a four-state area will take part. Last year's festival, held in Palmer Stadium, drew 3,000 singers and an audience of 3,500. This year, Dr. John F. Williamson will again conduct. Alexander McCurdy, head of the organ department at Westminster and at the Curtis Institute, will be guest organist.

CHOIR TO SING

In Princeton Performance, A concert celebrating the 30th year in Princeton of the Westminster Choir College will be given in McCarter Theatre on April 4 under Warren Martin.

The choir will sing Bach's "Komm, Jesu, Komm," a motet for double chorus, in its original German text. The work is one of six motets written by Bach for use in the church services at St. Thomas and St. Nicholas in Leipzig.

In addition, the choir will sing three motets by Schutz: "Die Himmel erhaben die Ehre Gottes," "Selig sind die Toten" and "So fahr ich hin zu Jesu Christ."

THE GARDEN

No Love for Johnnie (March 21-27) follows the English dramatic tradition of "Room At the Top" with a tale of love and politics, sensitively acted by Peter Finch. It is the story of Johnnie Byrne, a member of the House of Commons, who is slighted at having been bypassed as a cabinet choice.

After his frigid wife leaves him, Johnnie joins a left-wing group to oppose the Prime Minister. He falls in love with a model half his age, portrayed appealingly by Mary Peach, and pursues her until she finally rejects him. His wife offers to come back to him, but he learns that her affiliation with the Communist Party is the reason for his failure to achieve his cabinet position.

The story ends without comment, without a real ending almost, as if director Ralph Thomas wished to probe into a man's character at one point in his life and then depart from it just as coldly. A long, passionate love-making scene and some brutally frank dialogue are the added ingredients by which the producer, Ety Box, ensures an "adult" rating. Comment: incisive character analysis.

A View from the Bridge (March 28-April 10) is another international film version of Arthur Miller's stage play, recalling the French film of "The Crucible" a few years ago. It makes one wonder, in passing, why Hollywood chooses to ignore our American authors of stature and leave their interpretations to the Europeans.

In any event, Miller's story is a brooding drama of a Brooklyn longshoreman who has brought up his wife's niece from a child to a young woman. His paternal feelings toward Catherine have changed into a physical obsession to possess the girl. The picture concerns his action when she falls in love with an immigrant who is illegally in the United States.

Raf Vallone, last seen here in "Two Women," carries the acting load as Eddie Carbone, the longshoreman. He makes Eddie both man and animal, a person to be both loved and despised, in a performance of remarkable depth and character. Carol Lawrence, in her first dramatic role after the Broadway lead in "West Side Story," is also impressive as Catherine.

Miller was attempting to follow Greek tragedy in the construction, character and sustained power of the play. He doesn't achieve his goal completely, but nevertheless leaves a raw, powerful and realistic drama of a man's self-destruction. Peter Sidney Jarrett has added no trappings to the starkness of the play. Comment: brutal, brooding drama.

STATEMENT ISSUED

On "Open Letters." Following receipt of an "open letter" from former Township Committeeman William Marvel (see page 17) Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman announced Monday night that neither he nor Township Committee would "pull the letters to the editor" column for the conduct of public business.

Mayor Fairman reminded Township residents that they were free to present questions directly to Committee at any meeting, and he said that, if other "open letters" were forthcoming, Committee would reply to them at the next scheduled public meeting, having notified the writer in advance of the date.

He said that the minutes of such a meeting would constitute the official record both of the letter and the Committee's reply. In regard to Mr. Marvel's questions, Mayor Fairman said that he and Committee would have answered them Monday except for the time-consuming hearing on the dog ordinance.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED

In Park Place Fire, Six teenagers whose names police have been pending further investigation have been taken into custody in connection with the fire at 21 Park Place on Sunday, March 11. Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that the youths had admitted starting a gasoline-bell blaze in the vacant house because they knew it was to be razed to permit construction of a municipal parking lot.

Chief McCrohan said that shortly after the fire, a half-filled gasoline can was found near the house, and following intensive questioning by members of the police department, the youths were taken into custody. The charges against them will be malicious mischief and not arson, he said. Conducting the investigation

THREE INJURED

In Early Morning Accident, Three persons were injured in an accident that occurred shortly after 3 Sunday morning at the intersection of Bayard Lane and Stockton Street. Three cars were involved.

Most seriously injured was Miss Susan Holloway, 25, of Lakeside Apartments, a passenger in one of the cars. She sustained contusions of the right arm, right hip joint, and a possible mild concussion.

She was x-rayed at Princeton Hospital, admitted and released the following day.

Also injured were Mrs. Margaret Jeffries, 297 Moore Street, and Kenneth M. Nicoll, 24, Zion-Wertsville Road, Skillman. Mrs. Jeffries was checked the following afternoon at Princeton Hospital for a sprained neck and back; and Mr. Nicoll for abrasions of the forehead and chin, lacerations of the right ankle and hematoma of the left knee.

The accident happened when Mr. Nicoll, traveling on Stockton, stopped at the intersection of Bayard Lane to wait for a car traveling west on Nassau Street driven by Arthur Ford, 42, Trenton, before turning into Bayard. Police said that Edward Jeffries, 51, 297 Moore Street, traveling behind Mr. Nicoll, struck the rear of his car, pushing it 42 feet forward into the path of Ford's car.

Mr. Jeffries was issued a summons for careless driving. —Continued on Page 12

MARRIED 57 YEARS

Bortons To Celebrate, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Borton of 1 Maple Avenue, Lawrenceville will celebrate their 57th wedding anniversary this Sunday. Mr. Borton is clerk and treasurer of the Princeton Society of Friends.

Mr. Borton, who was formerly in charge of the machine shop at RCA, retired in 1945. He was associated with RCA at various times for a total of 28 years, beginning in 1903 when the company was manufacturing the Victor talking machine.

Mr. Borton and his wife, the former Mary A. Newbold, were married March 25, 1905, at the 12th Street Meeting House in Philadelphia. They lived in Mountaintown before moving to Lawrenceville in 1942. They have three children, six grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

BOARD MEETS

Hears School Reports. Following a directive from the state Department of Education, the Township School Board voted Thursday to adopt a civil defense plan which calls for the evacuation of children to their homes in the event of emergency.

In his superintendent's report, Dr. John McKenna noted that 35 percent of the students at Princeton High School come from the Township and that 45.4 percent of students on the honor roll are Township students. Two students are on the school's high honor roll, Dr. McKenna said, and both are from the Township.

The Board adopted a calendar for the 1962-63 school year, beginning with the Thursday after Labor Day, September 6, and ending June 18. The policy of a winter recess will be continued next year. Dr. McKenna said because the first experiment this year broke the usual cold virus grip on faculty and students.

LEAGUE MAKES COUNT

Occupies, Brlar, Prati. When members of the League of Women Voters completed their Import Count last week, they found, as they expected, that Princeton homes are full of foreign-made goods.

Forty-nine countries were represented in the count, with England and the Scandinavian countries ranked first. Almost no imports from Iran, Czechoslovakia, Hungary or Japan appeared on the lists.

Many of the items were expected, silver and china from England and Scandinavia, cameras from Germany and Japan, linen from Ireland, watches from Switzerland, wool from England.

Others, however, were more surprising. League members reported pea-tees from Germany, pipe briar from North Africa, sardines from Peru and canned octopus from Japan.

Mrs. Martin Schwartzschid, president of the Princeton League, suggested that the diversity of items points up the elusiveness of the item-by-item method used by the United States in its tariff machinery. The League recommended that the President be given power to make across-the-board tariff cuts.

CANCER GROUP FORMED

As ACS Branch. All residents of Princeton who are interested in forming a branch of the American Cancer Society are invited to attend an organization meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the First Presbyterian Church.

Reston to Speak

James Reston, head of the Washington bureau of the New York Times, will speak in the Campus Center auditorium of Princeton Theological Seminary Tuesday night at 7:45. The public is invited.

Mr. Reston has been on the staff of the New York Times since 1939, when he joined the paper's London bureau. In 1956, he was made assistant to the publisher, Arthur Hays Sulzberger.

He won the Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the Houston Texas Security Conference in 1944, and won it again for national reporting in 1953. He has been head of the Washington bureau since 1953.

Assembly Room of the First Presbyterian Church.

The meeting is sponsored by a committee led by Harold E. Barker to form a campaign chairman for the American Cancer Society in the Princeton area, and including Dr. James B. Hastings, chairman of the Cancer Control Committee at Princeton Hospital, Dr. Thomas H. Jukes, director of biochemistry, American Cyanamid, Donald M. Meisel, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and Horace W. Moody of the annual giving section, Princeton University Fund.

A film, "Life Story," on cancer of the colon, will be shown and Dr. Hastings will answer questions. The work involved in organizing a Princeton ACS chapter will then be discussed. Such a branch would follow the state or county program with divisions for education, service, publicity, campaigns and professional liaison.

The Cancer Control Committee has been in operation at the hospital since January 1, compiling a registry of all patients who enter the hospital with cancer (about 25 a month) and keeping accurate records of the forms of cancer encountered, the stage of the disease, when it was diagnosed, the methods of treatment and the end results, including survival time.

As an indication of the contributions of the ACS to the Princeton community, the organizing group points out that, in the years from 1947 through 1961, ACS gave the University $266,973, including funds granted for current research now being conducted by Dr. Edward C. Taylor and Dr. Lionel Hebburn.

AID COMMITTEE TO MEET

Will Welcome Guests. The Hospital Aid Committee of Princeton Hospital will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. in the hospital, with guests Mrs. Louise S. McAlinden and Miss Allean Roberts, 65 Leigh Avenue. Mrs. McAlinden, director of the School of Practical Nursing, will speak on "Some Aspects of the Training of Practical Nurses." Mrs. McAlinden will introduce Miss Roberts, a member of the school's fifth class. A graduate of Bethel Union High School, North Carolina, Miss Roberts is the recipient of the Hospital Aid Committee scholarship to the Practical Nursing School, not the Women's Auxiliary scholarship as previously reported.

Dr. Frederick S. Dunn, 68, of Princeton - Lawrenceville Road, died March 17 in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital. Dr. Dunn had lived in Princeton since 1951 when he began ten years of teaching at Princeton University. Dr. Dunn graduated from Princeton in 1914, and received his law degree from New York University in 1917. He served in the Army during World War I and later practiced law in Washington. For six years, until 1935, he was executive secretary of the Walter H. Page

School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Dunn was professor of international relations at Yale University and director of the Yale Institute of International Studies from 1935 until 1951. He then returned to Princeton to hold the Albert G. Milbank Chair in public and international affairs. He retired as director of the Center of International Studies last summer.

Chairman of the board of Editors of World Politics, Dr. Dunn was also a trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and a consultant to the Rand Corporation. He was the author of several books dealing with international relations.

Surviving are his widow, the former Marie Willard; daughter, Mrs. Mark Morford of Brighton, England; two grandchildren, Daniel Willard III, of Bethesda, Md., and Mrs. Mary Beale Munford, of Baltimore, Md.; and a brother, Alan Dunn, of New York City.

The funeral was held in Bedford, N. H., under arrangement of the Kimble Funeral Home.

The Rev. Dr. Lester H. Clee, 73, of 61 Littlebrook Road, died of cancer March 15 in Princeton Hospital. A Princeton resident for the past ten years, Dr. Clee, who narrowly missed elected governor of New Jersey in 1937, was interim pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church for two years, until last summer. A memorial service will be held Saturday at 4 in the church sanctuary.

Dr. Clee served as pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Newark for 23 years. Born in Thompsonville, Conn., he received his primary and high school education there and in Worcester, Mass. In 1934, Dr. Clee was elected to the Assembly in his first bid for public office.

Running on the Clean Government Republican ticket in Essex County, he made the party a power in politics. It first beat the GOP organization in Essex County, then went on to give battle to Democratic chairman Frank Hague.

In 1935, Dr. Clee, who maintained his ministerial duties while in politics, won the county's state Senate election. Two years later he defeated former Governor Harold G. Hoffman's candidate in the Republican primary election by 43,000 votes, to win the nomination for governor.

The short but bitter gubernatorial campaign ended with the Hague candidate, A. Harry Moore, winning a successful third term by a margin of 43,266 votes, including a plurality of 129,237 in his home county, Hudson County. Dr. Clee charged that the election had been fraudulent, but the accusation was not investigated by the Senate.

During his legislative career, Dr. Clee retained his pastoral role, fought for economic government, sponsored election revision legislation, lobbied with Hoffman and opposed legislation authorizing partial-mutual betting on horse races in New Jersey, which later became law.

Surviving are his widow, the former Madeline Dreier, of Newark, his former secretary, and a son by his first marriage, Gilbert H. Clee, of Mount Kisco, N. Y. Dr. Clee married his first wife, the former Katherine Steele, of Worcester, Mass., in 1911. She died in 1934, and he remarried in 1935. The funeral was held in the Second Presbyterian Church of Newark, with Dr. Theodore A. Rath, president of Bloomfield College and Seminary, and Dr. Frederick Schweitzer, president emeritus, conducting the service. Interment was in Hanover Township.

Mrs. Claire Levine, 68, 93 Woodside Lane, died March 16 in Deborah Hospital, Browns Mills. Born in Austria, she came to this country at the age of 12 months and had made her home in Princeton for 24 years.

With her husband, Benjamin B. Levine, she was the owner of Claridge Wine and Liquor, an establishment which she started when she first came here.

Until the last few years, when illness curtailed her activities to some extent, she participated in Princeton Democratic politics, and even though she was confined by ill health, she maintained a keen interest in community affairs.

Mrs. Levine is survived by her husband; a son, Leonard of New York; a daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Krander of East Meadow, Long Island; and two grandchildren.

A service was held in the Riverside Memorial Chapel, New York, with burial in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery, Long Island.

James A. McCarthy, 78, of 5 Madison Avenue died March 20 at home. He had retired in 1933 after 20 years in business for himself as a contractor. Husband of the late Helen Phillips McCarthy, he is survived by two sons.

Question of the Week

Question: In your opinion do working girls stay younger and more attractive than housewives?

Where Asked: Palmer Square.
Miss Mary Anne Bonham, 288 Mt. Lucas Road, receptionist for Dr. Pickering: I would say so, yes. When you're working, you have to be more presentable at all times, whereas the housewife, working at home, doesn't have to meet the public or new people as much.

Matthew Maxwell, Grover's Mill, foreman, plumbing and heating, Princeton University: Yes, but only up to a certain age. When working girls hit the 40's, they start to show the strain in their age. A married woman will last longer.

Mrs. Henry Baer, River Edge, Director of Volunteer Services for New Jersey Society for Crippled Children and Adults: Yes, definitely. They have more of a challenge to keep themselves well-groomed. As a working girl myself, I know this from first-hand experience. At home, housewives have a tendency to relax and let themselves go. The truth is they get bored.

John Kirk, Little Hall Princeton University senior: I'd say it was probably a toss-up six of one, half a dozen of the other.

Mrs. Franklin Steele, 15 Mason Drive, housewife: Soon to have her sixth baby in seven years! Naturally, a housewife doing her cleaning is not going to look as attractive as a woman sitting behind a desk. But on the other hand, I feel most girls who marry and have children remain more attractive over the long run. I'm all in favor of motherhood. I think large families are wonderful. Housewives don't spend as much money on clothes or as much time making themselves up as working girls do.

Edward Bartholomew, Princeton Inn, cashier: Yes, in my opinion, they do. I suppose it is required in business that they keep attractive and I guess they are more conscious of the pressure to keep well-groomed in order to keep their jobs.

Miss Rita Thompson, N. Main Street, Highstown nurse, Princeton Hospital: Single working girls definitely do. Single girls who must depend on themselves for their sole support have to keep themselves well-groomed and in tip-top shape. Married girls usually work because they need the money. They can't afford to spend what they make on fancy clothes and they don't have as much time to spend on their appearance; they're too busy doing two jobs at once.

Miss Mary Lou Dallenbach, Cranbury, secretary: Yes. The main reason I think working girls look better is competition. Competition in obtaining a job and competition in keeping it. Also, if they are looking for a husband, they have to look attractive and presentable at all times. The housewife, of course, has to pay more attention to her children and her-work around the house than she does on her appearance. At least she should.

Albert Davis, Plainsboro, superintendent, Princeton Water Company: No, they don't. All you have to do is walk the street and see for yourself. Housewives are much neater and more attractive looking, in my opinion. The younger generation today doesn't care what they wear or how they wear it. All you have to do is watch them come out of their office buildings; their hair is piled up on their heads, their dress is garish. Housewives are much neater.

Miss Catherine Blanc, 31 Moran Avenue, teacher: I would say if the work she is doing is truly something she is interested in and has a strong desire to do, as opposed to working at any job just in order to earn money, then I feel that person is more likely to be a much more interesting one and her enthusiasm for her job will tend to make her stay younger and more attractive than a housewife working at home.

Mrs. John Perna, 39 Humbert Street, housewife: I think working girls are better dressed and they take care of their appearance very well, but I wouldn't say they are more attractive. I think women who are married are happier.

Mrs. Max H. Mesner, 798 Princeton-Kingsston Road, housewife: Yes, through sheer necessity and demand. The competition in jobs is such that if they did not keep themselves up, their employer would probably get someone who did.

James Stryker, 173 John Street, head waiter, Terrace Club: I think it depends on the position, whether she is a face worker, factory worker or housewife. I imagine in nine cases of out ten, a factory worker has to work a lot harder whereas as office work isn't as strenuous. The two naturally would dress differently. An office worker has to be well-dressed and neat, a factory worker and a housewife don't.

Elias Whitmoyer, Alexander Road, carpenter, Foreman: Working girls are, but just on the surface. The working girl has to put on a lot of lipstick and powder every morning. True beauty comes from within. I don't see where one is any younger or more attractive than the other. I think it would depend on the individual person.

Shoot the Drama Critic.

To the Editor of Town's Topics: Far be it from me to suggest that you muzzle your dramatic critic, but I suggest that as an alternative you might take him out behind the McCarter Theatre and shoot him. His remarks about the McCarter production of the "Duchess of Malfi" were absolutely astonishing, particularly coming as they did from a representative of a paper which should devote itself to stimulating rather than dampening Princeton's enthusiasm for its current dramatic Renaissance.

As a long-time theatre-goer, I found the "Duchess of Malfi" one of the most brilliant Elizabethan interpretations I have ever seen. The play, done with wit and enormous style, it was flawlessly acted and the direction was superb.

As one enchanted member of the audience, I had a feeling that I had slipped back into history and was seeing the play done exactly as it might have been done in Shakespeare's day. What more could one ask in a review?

I note that although the production was scoured by "Town's Topics" it was well received by "The New York Times." A prophet is indeed without honor in his own land.

Some Dogs Uncontrolled.

To the Editor of Town's Topics: I am appalled that you would print a letter which contains as much misinformation as that of Paul R. Diederich in Mailbox (Town's Topics, March 3).

He states that, in the debate over the Township Dog Ordinance, the only serious complaint seems to be against the presence of dogs on school playgrounds. "Seems," indeed!

Are he and you totally unaware that many, many hundreds of Township residents have filed with the Clerk written requests for other people's dogs be kept off their property and be controlled while on the public right-of-way and that practically none of these requests has even mentioned school property? Are he and you unaware of the flood of petitions asking for a ordinance similar to that which is in effect in rural Montgomery Township and which has met with such success?

No one is asking that, if a friendly neighborhood dog comes to call, one must notify the police. What we are asking, and what we must now demand, is that all dogs be kept at all times in control and that their owners be held responsible and liable for their actions, so that each of us may enjoy, with our children and dogs and other pets, the property we own and upon which we pay gigantic taxes, and so that those of us who wish to exercise our pets under control, on the public right-of-way may do so without being attacked by packs of uncontrolled dogs, as so happens. We must demand protection NOW against our thoughtless neighbors and their uncontrolled, dangerous dogs!

Per square foot of pavement, Snowden Lane is much more dangerous for dogs from vehicular traffic and for vehicular traffic from dogs than the streets of Manhattan. He has chosen to observe the obvious—dogs leashed to dog-lovers in Princeton. What he fails to explain is why the dog-lovers must also carry stout sticks to protect their dogs and themselves against the uncontrolled dogs...

Children and adults have been bitten, dogs and other pets maimed and killed, sheep slaughtered, yards and shrubbery destroyed, neighbors taught to hate neighbor, all because of a relatively few uncontrolled dogs in the Township. Their activities metastasized like a cancer in our midst.

Censorship at High School?

To the Editor of Town's Topics: During the past few months, there have been many columns in TOWN TOPICS devoted to discussion of whether or not school children should be taught in Princeton, and whether or they should be built at all. This is one of the chief items on the agenda of this Congress, and of considerable concern to the New Jersey State Legislature. It is a decision on whether to build or not to build will eventually affect all of us who are alive today and the future generations living in New Jersey.

Policy Stated

Last week, Roger Moservey, a Princeton High School sophomore, writing in TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox," questioned the wisdom of the school's solution to the problem posed by a state directive that the school raise its 135-minute-per-week of gym to the required 150.

The writer said that, under the school's system, a student could not take six academic subjects or a laboratory science and still fulfill the gym requirements. William Rhodes, principal of Princeton High School, says that only 18 students out of the 1,525 at the school are on a subject load, and that their individual schedules are being adjusted so that a lab science, the 150 minutes of gym and six subjects can be fitted into the school day.

views on it. The problem is also the topic for interclass debates, and it is refreshing to see that high school students are actively discussing this problem since their future is certainly involved.

In Princeton where we have available many experts and sources of information which can be used by these high school students, I understand that the local debating club at the high school has prepared teams to debate this question but has not been allowed to participate in the interclass debates since the question is "too controversial."

This seems to be a very short-sighted policy on the part of the school administration, and I hope does not reflect the policy of Borough and Township Boards of Education. Fall-out shelters cannot be ignored and must be discussed, and the high school students, the voters of 1966, should be allowed to participate in the discussion.

DAVID PERLMAN
33 University Place

Editor's note: William S. Roubert, faculty sponsor of the debating club at Princeton High School, explains that officials of the Borough School Board and Chester A. Stroup, superintendent of schools, asked the debating team to postpone a scheduled assembly debate on fall-out shelters until the Board had finished its deliberations on a disaster plan and had decided what its overall policy would be. No interclass debate was ever intended; the debate would have been held at the high school student body in regular assembly.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The note of alarm regarding the extension of quarrying as proposed by Kingston Trap Rock, an alarm sounded in your Mailbox, should arouse the State office which is entrusted with protecting open space for the future.

The issue certainly is not local to Canal Road. Am I my brother's keeper? We had better be in this instance, or we may find that the opportunity for preserving locations for homesites and parks will be foreclosed.

Certainly Kingston Trap Rock is entitled to make money, but it is questionable whether an early permission, before zoning was adopted, allows it an unlimited extension of the area which it may dig up. That point might well be carried to the highest court in the State; but returning to the matter of public good-will, Trap Rock could find in the State various low-cost industrial areas where there are usable rock formations. Surely their early right to do business did not contemplate the right to destroy the realty values of others; and the neglected requirement to fence the property should be immediately enforced.

Marvel Questions Sewer.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Rarely does a new sewer present a high policy question? But the proposed Great Road sewer seems to me to be different.

The figure $330,000 has been mentioned by the Township Committee as the estimated cost of this sewer. It has also been said that this project is receiving a high priority in 1962. What is the plan for financing the sewer?

Is this to be financed by a long term bond issue at full public expense, or as a local improvement subject to assessments against benefited property owners, or as a mixture of these two methods? If a mixture, what are the proportions of the mix?

In the light of other pressing needs, is not the investment of $330,000 in one sewer extension putting things rather out of balance in favor of sewers? Is the Township Committee convinced that it has made adequate provision for such other needs as the acquisition of open space, the Township's share of a new library building, and recreational development?

When was the decision made that the Great Road sewer was to get the big push? For nearly a year the Township Committee has had estimates on three major sewer extensions, the Great Road being one. When I left the Township Committee at the end of 1961, there had been no decision and practically no discussion that I can recall as to the procedures and priorities for dealing with these three needed sewers. But during the reorganization meeting of the Committee in January 1962, it was announced that the Great Road sewer would have a high priority.

The project proposed for the northeastern end of the Township (Hillside Avenue and Route 206) is clearly the more urgent and the more justifiable. The sewer in that location (and the project is estimated at a lower cost than the Great Road sewer) would meet the most critical health problem in the Township that can be relieved through sewer extension.

It would service the commercial zone and part of the research zone, thus helping to bring in more nonresidential tax payables to keep our tax rate from soaring as it has just done this year. Finally, the sewer at the northeastern end of the Township would be a direct line to the treatment plant.

On the other hand, the Great Road sewer would feed into the existing trunk system that loops around the entire town of Princeton and would thus to some extent worsen a situation, where serious overflows in the Prospect Avenue Extension area within recent years.

A public statement by the Township Committee answering these questions would, I am sure, help to clarify what cobbling and despatching, others now a very large curiosity on my part about this whole undertaking.

COBBLER, OLD STYLE

In Shoe Shop. The care, pride and skill that have, traditionally, characterized the work of European artisans, are evident in the cobbling. If that's the word we want, done by John, the shoe man who maintains his bench at 66 Witherspoon.

John Fraunhofer learned his craft in Austria and worked for many years as a custom shoe-maker in the Innsbruck ski country. When skiing began to boom in the United States, he followed the boom, but found in his disillusionment, that skiers preferred the mass-produced to the master-made.

So he came to Princeton and began to make boots and shoes, some of them for customers

I have appreciated the best in shoe-making, and despatching, others now a very large curiosity on my part about this whole undertaking.

John was out of things for the long time while he recovered from the burns inflicted by a severe accident, but he is back again, with his awl and his needle and his fine leathers, as ready to make a pair of sandals, mended to your foot, as to repair your alligator bag—or put a new sole on a small shoe scuffed to bedrock.

Never before has so much engineering know been poured into a 6-hp tractor. Speed of attachment-change alone puts the Husky way out in front of its competition.
Boles engineers call the Husky's 3-point hitch (with spined power take-off) "the half-minute hitch"... and they're being conservative.
Eleven Fast-Switch attachments mean year-round usefulness.
Mow with the 32-inch rotary mower shown above.
A 22-inch tillage attachment gives you easy, convenient tilling. The 32-inch Sno-Caster makes snow removal a pleasure... for light snow use the 42-inch snow blower.
These and seven other attachments make the Husky 600
an all-season worker.

BOYS ON THE BOUNCE: Zoom! Just a small bounce and they go high in the sky. These are members of third and fourth grade Gra-Y Clubs at Princeton YMCA, who received instruction in "basic bouncing" at introductory trampolene classes last Saturday. At left, John Martin, 9, is a w-e-e off, guided by instructor Alan Whitelock. Above, Mr. Whitelock shows Leonard Kingley, 9, the proper method of landing for a sit-jump. Eight-week classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced trampolene will be offered in April. Registration information may be obtained at the YMCA.

LEAGUE TO SHOW FILM
On Children. The Princeton
Childbirth Education League will show a film, "The Two-Year-Old Goes to the Hospital," at a public meeting on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in Trinity Church Parish Hall. Dr.
Morris Parnot, Child Psychiatrist at the New Jersey Psychiatric Institute, will interpret the film, discuss further developments and answer questions.

The League feels that the film is "a must" for parents of young children who may want to prepare their children for unexpected trips to the hospital. The film shows the preparation of the child for operation and her experiences in the hospital — play periods, visits from parents and release.

Mrs. Robert Parmenter will be the hostess, and a coffee hour will follow the meeting.
Further information may be obtained by calling WA 4-2946.
Mrs. Richard Siegler, librarian, now has a copy of the proceedings of the 1960 conference International Childbirth Education Association. The League also has announced that it will sponsor a booth at the Princeton Hospital Fete in June, and that Mrs. Meredith Langberg and Henry Martin will be in charge.

 Traffic from interstate, as well as the anticipated traffic flow leading into this area from the Delaware Expressway across the new bridge at Scudder's Falls. Belief was expressed that the projected interstate Highway 1-85 may be switched from the current tentative route through West Windsor Township to a line a few miles north of Princeton.

PROGRESS REPORT
 On Route 206-A, a public hearing will be held this spring on the alignment of State Route 206-A, long-discussed by-pass which would lead from State Road 206 to US Route 1. Simultaneously with this announcement, however, came the declaration that "the by-pass has a low priority rating with the State Highway Department."

The statements were made at a meeting called by Princeton University to review the traffic problem confronting this section of central New Jersey. Held in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the meeting was attended by 93 municipal, county and university officials.

It was Mercer County Freeholder Arthur Sypek who revealed that a public hearing will be held within the next few weeks to discuss a more exact alignment for the proposed route than has heretofore appeared on the drawing boards of various planning agencies. But the degree of progress implied in this report was more than offset by a comment made moments later by Mercer County Engineer Louis Calvanelli.

"The proposed by-pass holds a very low priority on the future plans of the State Highway Department," Mr. Calvanelli said, "because the anticipated traffic flow on 206-A would be very low. It is figured to cut off from 206 north of Bulmers' Corner and proceed northeast of Kingston to Route 1. There are variations, however, and no firm alignment has ever been set."

The meeting also considered the proposed "loop road" which would serve as a sort of circular, freeway-style to divert the entire community to divert

SPORTS In Princeton

One December day in 1933, a young basketball coach, not ten years out of college brought his team to Dillon Gymnasium and watched it subdue a highly-regarded Princeton quintet, 69-60. At the final buzzer, Bill van Breda Kolff of Indiana, a controversial handsake from Cappy Cappon, who had taught him much as a player during an abbreviated wartime career at Princeton.

Even though he had, at that time, been coaching for only four seasons at Lafayette and was in his first campaign at Indiana, van Breda Kolff's team clearly showed the touch of the master coach, ability to get the most out of his material. "Same day," the belief was voiced by close followers of the sport here, "he'll become Cappy's successor at Princeton."

More than a year ago, when Cap was recovering from his first heart attack, word came to van Breda that it expected the capable 38-year old coach to be tapped for the post here. But Cappy recovered sufficiently to begin directing the team last November, and hopes were high that he would continue for a few more seasons, with van Breda Kolff waiting in the wings.

There was no doubt that Jake McCandless was purely an interim coach when he stepped in for Cappon at the latter's death three days before the season began. The conflict between football and basketball was extreme during the winter, and Jake is first and foremost a standout back-field coach.

Logical Choice. So the "search" for a successor to Cappy could begin long before the 1934 season ended, and while it is likely that as many as half a dozen names were in the hat, only one was seriously considered as long as he left himself in the running. There was among the colleges also on a talent hunt at the coaching level, and chances are all that it made a strong move in van Breda Kolff's direction.

At Indiana, he had compiled a great record of 136 victories against 43 defeats, and in 1930 a mark earned his team the Eastern Conference Small College Trophy. When the Syracuse job was filled with-out mention of van Breda Kolff, it seemed certain he was coming here.

An alumnus of Montclair High and Hill, the Tigers' new coach entered Princeton in the well-known year of 1941. Three and a half years in the Majors preceded his appearance on the basketball scene. He explained the first post-war winter here and also earned all-American honors in soccer.

Four years as a member of the New York Knickerbockers gave him invaluable playing experience, and after he earned his bachelor of arts degree from NYU, while playing with the Knicks, he left them to begin coaching at Lafayette. There, too, he developed teams that were a credit to his ability—his last ruling to a 23-3 mark, a berth in the National Invitational Tournament and earning him the Coach of the Year award from New York basketball writers.

His appearance on the Princeton scene could hardly come at a time when basketball will be more in the spotlight. For his first three years in Dillon Gym, van Breda Kolff will coach the highly-impressive Bill Bradley, whose freshman season here made considerable sports history. The combination of the new coach, Bradley's potential and the reputation of Art Healy's all-around ability has the basketball faithful in a state of excited anticipation. The Cappon regime, marked as it was by far more than his share of icy titles, based on ability to produce the most from available material, has a worthwhile successor.

SPRING SPORTS REPORT
In a Ward: Black, John Connolly's tennis team, which rolled to a 15-0 record and the Eastern Association championship last season, figures to have the strength at the top and the depth to retain its supremacy among colleges north of the Mason-Dixon Line. Nowhere else, however, are Princeton's chances bright—in fact, most other Tiger teams will have trouble topping the 500 mark. This seems particularly true in baseball, crew and lacrosse. The team lacks both pitchers and hitters strength, while Ferris Thomson, who has directed his teams to five straight lacrosse titles, is desperately searching for a goalie. Princeton crews have not won since the 1933 season's opener against Navy, but are likely to reverse the trend this spring with the addition of Rutgers in the schedule.

Harry Kinnell's golfers, who won all 12 matches last year and took the Eastern Intercollegiate with a great show of balance, have been hard hit by graduation. They will, however, in all probability, top the 500 mark with ease, with Pete Morgan's track team also likely to win more than it loses.

A lacrosse game on Post Field Saturday at 2:30 will open the spring season, with the Philadelphia Athletics Club providing the opposition. A week's stay in Winter Park, Fla., will prove helpful to the baseball team, as it faces Rollins, Duke and Amherst in a series of six games. The 1933 season will open officially at Clarke Field on April 4 with Seton Hall providing the opposition.

Earlier in the season, Princeton had lost dual meets to both Harvard and Yale by 15 to 20 points. ### Exercise in Statistical Nonsense . . .

To follow this thesis you must understand the meaning of the term "passenger mile." A "passenger mile" is the distance traveled by one passenger going one mile. I.e. One passenger traveling ten miles has traveled ten "passenger miles." Likewise ten passengers traveling the same distance have collectively traveled one hundred "passenger miles." Clear so far? Now you agree to consider a single flower as a "passenger" and agree on what a "passenger mile" is. We may then proceed with our calculations.

For our $1.00 weekend flower specials we often have flowers shipped in from the country. Let us figure how many "passenger miles" were represented on a recent weekend in specials alone.

1825 daisies each came three thousand miles from California or 5,475,000 passenger miles. Fifty bunches of statice also from California 150,000 P.M. Twenty-five dozen gladioli (300 flowers) from Florida or 450,000 P.M. Add to these sixty bunches of pompons (Fls.) an additional 30,000 miles. When all our flowers were landed in Philadelphia they had collectively traveled 6,035,000 Passenger miles. Impressed?

Each and every flower had yet to travel to Hopewell (50 miles) or 111,750 P.M. So far 6,216,750 passenger miles and we only talked about four of our six flower specials.

All these flowers had yet to travel additional "Passenger miles" to get to our customers' homes. Summation:

All Although Allen's Flowers are well-traveled, they have lots of mileage left (you know how well they keep). By a buck never went farther, either. Top quality, modestly priced - money back guarantee.

We still have six $1.00 specials again this weekend. P.S. HELP STAMP OUT MEANINGLESS STATISTICS.

News Of The CHURCHES

APPEAL EXPECTED

To Dr. Heck Case. The decision of the Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey to bar the Rev. Dr. John H. Hick from membership in the Presbytery New Brunswick is expected to be appealed to the United Presbyterian General Assembly, national body of the church, when it meets May 17 to 23 in Denver, Colorado. The Presbytery had previously voted to enroll Dr. Hick but the Synod announced last week that it was reversing the Presbytery's decision.

James E. Pickett, public information director at Princeton Theological Seminary where Dr. Hick is a faculty member, said this week that appeals would probably be made by several New Jersey presbyteries, since the Synod's action brings up the whole question of whether or not a synod has the right to overrule the decision of a presbytery.

In this particular case, Mr. Andrews said, the situation is additionally complicated by the fact that the General Assembly approved Dr. Hick's appointment in 1959 to the seminary faculty, which would seem to put the Synod in the position of flouting the decision of the General Assembly as well as that of the Presbytery of New Brunswick.

Appeals do not have to be filed until "the opening day of the General Assembly meeting," Mr. Andrews said, so that no further action is anticipated in the case until May 17.
